The Parish Letter

I am delighted to have this opportunity to write in 'The Villager'. Let me first of all add my thanks and my tribute to Celia's remarkable ministry in your benefice. There is so much to be grateful for in her ministry locally as the life to be found in the church in Avening and Cherington shows.

Appreciation for Celia's ministry will in many ways be demonstrated by the way that life is nurtured and allowed to continue to grow. Your greatest tribute to her will be to cherish the gift of a lively church she has helped create with you!

We as a diocese together and I as your Archdeacon need to play our part also. This is first of all, of course, in the commitment to the appointment of her successor, plans for which are underway. I have already met the PCCs and they are preparing a profile for the next appointment. I then look forward to working with your parish representatives to find your new priest. This will be your priest, living in Avening, leading your worship, offering local pastoral care but working as part of a team under the oversight of the priest in Tetbury to offer mutual support and encouragement.

Do please keep this process in your thoughts and prayers. Your new priest will need your welcome, support and love when he or she comes, later this year or early next.

In the meantime it is the Church Wardens who have the responsibility for the parish, supported by me and the Area Dean, Canon Leonard Doolan at Cirencester. I know they already have services planned and the people to lead them – indeed I am looking forward to being with you on 21 April. They are also putting in place arrangements to ensure the need for the pastoral offices of baptisms, weddings and funerals are met.

So I trust it will be business as usual over the next few months and much to look forward to in the life of the church in your benefice in the years to come.

Archdeacon Robert

Dying without a Will. Now that's a real tragedy.

No-one likes the thought of dying, so it's hardly surprising that almost 3 out of 5 UK adults don't have a valid Will (source: www.unbiased.co.uk 2010). Yet having one is one of the most important arrangements you can make during your lifetime.

My name is David Martin. I live in Nailsworth and I'm the local consultant for Steele Rose & Co - one of the UK's Premier Professional Home Visit Will Writers. After 22 years serving my country in the RAF, I have spent the last 28 years of my life professionally advising my clients on all personal financial matters and specialising in Wills.

Writing a Will is easier and cheaper than you think. It also ensures that your wishes are carried out simply and efficiently - causing the minimum of anguish for those you leave behind. If you would like to discuss your Will arrangements, redraft an existing Will, Lasting Powers of Attorney, or other associated legal services, at a mutually convenient time in the comfort and privacy of your own home, please contact me:

Lee Abbey, Devon

On Friday March 15th, several loaded cars set forth from Avening for the 2½ hour journey to Lee Abbey, near Lynton, on the north coast of Devon. This conference, retreat and holiday centre, set in an exceptionally beautiful corner of England was the place where, many years ago, Rev. Celia experienced the call to ordination and entered the difficult path she has trodden so devotedly over the past two decades: to serve the people of Avening and Cherington as their spiritual leader.

Lee Abbey is run by an international community of around 90 people of all ages and 20 nationalities. The community live and work together, offering hospitality, rest, activity and teaching to guests of many backgrounds. The Lee Abbey vision is to build community and renew and serve the church.

Our purpose was to join a weekend of “Renewal, Refreshment and Resource: in Transformational Faith”, to prepare us for the fast-approaching time when Celia enters her well-earned retirement. Our Avening and Cherington church communities will need to stand on our own feet during a short vacancy before the appointment of a new vicar in Tetbury. We will then fall under his/her supervision in an expanded benefice. Once that appointment is made, we will be looking for a part-time priest to help the new appointee in Tetbury but whose main responsibility will be to our two parishes.

But a church is a corporate body which should radiate its own faith and we sincerely hope that we have learned from Rev. Celia how to look out for our fellows and continue her amazing work in these communities. Our church community will still be here, services will be held every Sunday, the festivals will be celebrated and people in need will still find others to help in times of difficulty. We offer our services and pray that our churches will carry on the work which Rev. Celia has led so wonderfully. Please do keep coming and, if in need, please let us know.

The eleven people who attended the weekend, found much to inspire us in the devotional part of the timetable and thoroughly enjoyed the rest, good food and loving attention of the international team who worked so hard to make us welcome. Although the weather was not the best, we were treated on Sunday to blue skies and sunshine in which to walk the path down to the beach, and around the estate, some even venturing further. We enjoyed the sunshine shining on the sparkling sea, the stunning views along the cliffs, getting to know each other better, and contemplating the new-born lambs, with their reminder of Christ's promise:-

“I am the good shepherd. The good shepherd lays down his life for the sheep.”

Avening Primary School

END OF TERM CELEBRATIONS INCLUDE A FOND FAREWELL

Our Easter end of term is always jam-packed and fun-filled – there's the Easter Egg hunt, the celebration assembly and the legendary Avening School Talent Show. But this year's end of term celebrations included a tinge of sadness. We said 'Happy retirement' to our fantastic village vicar, Reverend Ceia Carter.

*Adam, Lucy, Phoebe, Tom & Daniel
Presenting Rev. Celia with the sampler*

Reverend Celia has always attended our Easter Assembly, sometimes bringing treats like lambs along! This time it was for her to get the treats! The Avening Primary School children sang her two specially adapted songs to mark her retirement and finally they presented her with a memento of her relationship with the School.

Thanks to the fantastic commitment and creative skills of two of our staff – Kelly Wilkinson and Alison Sollis - the children created a very special farewell 'sampler' with every one of our pupils sewing a section. The design, which shows owls (our school symbol), sheep, flowers and children, was a fitting thank you for the kindness Reverend Celia has shown the school.

And not to spare your blushes Reverend Celia, here are some of the 'nice things' the children wanted to say to you as you go into your retirement:

*Hope you have a nice retirement. Thank you for the Easter talk. Peace, love, hope, kindness.
Take care.
From Soni Maidment*

*Thank you for telling us the Easter story and the Christmas story. We will look after the church for you. We will miss you and good luck and take care.
From Nathan Pope.*

Thank you for being our lovely vicar. I remember when you brought your very cute black lamb in for our assembly when I was very little. Have a wonderful retirement.

From Greta Lukas

I am so sad that you are leaving and I will miss you and I wish you good luck in the future. I really like how you tell us the Easter story. Thank you so much.

From Matthew Turner

We are all going to miss you working at the church. You are the best Reverend ever.

Love from Elsie Heslop

We are going to miss you and your blessings. We hope you have a wonderful retirement.

Thank you.

From Tom Stewart

STOP PRESS:

Well done to our year 5/6 tag rugby team (pic.) who won a very close tournament at Kingshill School in the last week of term. Out of a total of 42 schools, they are now the Sainsbury's Sport Cotswold Schools champions! Well done to all the players and to our committed coach Mr Wilkinson!

(And in other story of brilliant team work - well done to our fantastic FOAS team - who raised nearly £3,000 in the auction of promises event they worked really hard to put on!)

If you are interested in finding out more about our school please take a regular look at our website which is updated often. In particular take a look at the interesting introduction to all our staff – with pictures courtesy of the children!

Village People

The Family Arrive in Avening

Stewart felt that the army was not the right place to raise a family and resigned his commission. Celia and Stewart's eldest child, Georgina, was born in London and the family went to live in Derbyshire. This period saw the start of Celia's interest in sheep; twenty-four in their first flock.

Then in 1967, when Stewart started a new job, the family finally came to Avening. Here they bought the Park and proceeded to renovate it, doing much of the work themselves. Celia vividly remembers one of the ladies of the village who 'called' on her very soon after the family's arrival, complete with the requisite calling card and who was visibly disappointed to be greeted by the 'lady' of the house, clutching a paint brush, wearing disreputable clothes and with her hair standing on end!

During her time in Avening, Celia has been involved in so much. For thirty years she served as a magistrate on the local bench and had the distinction of being the youngest magistrate they had appointed to date. She was also involved in prison visiting over many years. On one occasion Celia wanted to visit a young man from the village, who had got himself into a spot of bother, and was serving out his prison sentence. She was escorted to the high security wing, where the warden was reluctant to allow her to go in by herself, but Celia insisted that all would be well. On entering, the young man soon spotted her and, running over, swept her up in a huge bear hug!!! Within seconds, all the alarm bells in the prison were ringing and wardens came running. It was not a popular move!

Life was happy and busy for Celia with three children to look after by this time. What came next resulted in a momentous change in her life. She developed a particularly deadly form of meningitis and her life hung in the balance for some time. She remembers lying paralysed and unable to communicate, while people around her discussed her possible demise. She says that it was a strange time, when she first became acutely aware of her God and resolved that if she recovered, she would find some special way of serving Him.

Following that recovery, she volunteered amongst other things to sit with the dying, but in those days the Church was peculiarly resistant to help offered by 'amateurs' and she became quite despondent. Happily, on a visit to Lee Abbey, she met someone, who encouraged her to consider training at the Gloucester School of Ministry. Here she undertook a three year degree course. She then applied to become a Deacon. Of the sixteen candidates initially accepted, only two completed the course. She then served as a Deacon for five years, working as a hospital chaplain. Finally, in 1994 she was priested. There was still opposition from many of the established clergy to serving with a woman and indeed Celia faced that here in Avening. But she remembers, with gratitude, the great support she did receive from so many in the village. A petition was signed by several hundred and the Church, bowing to popular demand, finally installed her as Priest-in-Charge in Avening, where she has served ever since.

Her husband, Stewart, was travelling a lot at this time and Celia went with him when possible, but he was glad to accept retirement and spend more time at home. He was a well known figure, riding through the village on his horse, and taking part in village events. He led the Royal British Legion for many years as their President, and it was he who built up the Remembrance Service to what it is today. He also served on the Parish and District Council for twenty years or so, making sure that it was Avening people who were allocated housing and not 'outsiders'!!

During this period Celia has continued with her other great interest, serving as a Founder Trustee of Hop, Skip and Jump, a charity offering respite care to families of severely disabled children. When she first was asked to help by Click Mitchell, who had set up the charity, there was one centre in Cheltenham. Pretty soon this had become enlarged and demand had come for a second centre in Bristol. In the meantime a Turkish friend, who was over in this country on holiday, saw what was going on and asked that Celia and Click might consider doing something similar in Turkey. What an incredible thing to be asked to do and to be offered financial help by the Turkish government to put the idea into effect. At the same time, in this country, a Swindon centre was created. There was little or no money available, but Celia always speaks with admiration and gratitude of the way that people offered materials and labour for nothing to help the dream come true for some of the most desperate families in our society. This work has always been for her a wonderful additional role to her parish work; what she describes as Christian mission in the 'real' world.

Stop press news: yet another new centre is to open soon in Wigan, with money generously donated by a well-known local figure in the football world. As often, in Celia's life, this introduction was serendipitous

Celebration of Family life 1st May 2011

F.O.A.S. Ball
at Chavenage

Whilst on her travels, she decided to visit a house which had originally been built by her cousin, Oliver Messel. She boldly walked in and asked to talk to the present owner. She apologised for her temerity in asking to see round the house, explaining her interest in it. The owner was so tickled by the appearance of this 'high class' lass and intrigued by her story about Hop Skip and Jump, that he undertook to fund another centre locally and found himself invited to the reception held recently at Downing Street. It is hoped that eventually the finished centre will be opened by the Prime Minister.

There have been several great occasions in the village in the last fifteen years; the Millennium, the Jubilee and the visit to the Church by H.M. The Queen and HRH Prince Phillip, to attend the christening of their great granddaughter Savannah. This is only the second time a reigning monarch has attended a church service in Holy Cross Church, since Queen Matilda did so at the consecration in 1080.

Celia's final words to me were that she would like to think that her Ministry has concentrated on making Christianity accessible, fun and all inclusive and this is why she wanted her Leaving Party to be a celebration of her Christian faith to be shared with everyone who wanted to come. On a personal note, my husband and I, as relative newcomers to the village have observed how her aspirations translate into reality. On our arrival we experienced her generous welcome. We were immediately included in the life of this vibrant village. We are not unique. Celia offers this to all; church goers and others alike and it is remarkable how many she has involved in the Christian life of Avening. This is her legacy to her successor – a welcoming, lively parish and at its centre the Church, which so many come to and support.

We wish her well in all her future endeavours and I am sure I am not alone in wanting to thank her for the friendship and inspiration that she has offered as our Priest to so many and for so long.

Avening Playgroup

After watching the rain and hail on Saturday afternoon and the snow flurries early Sunday morning, we were blessed with wonderful weather for our first Easter Egg hunt. There was then a flurry, this time not of snow but of excited children and parents all coming to participate in our event. They set off through the village following clues and collecting letters as they went. The course led them on a circular walk up to the playgroup and back via Old Hill to the church where they collected the last letter of the hunt. They then had to form a word with the letters to claim their prize. Everybody managed to complete the course and form the word. Even the really young children amazed us with their anagram solving abilities! As the afternoon went on more families arrived to participate in the event and in the end there were 36 entries.

Everyone seemed to have a great time and it was a delight to see so many happy children and adults all enjoying such a simple event.

The playgroup raised just short of £70 after expenses and we would like to thank all those that took part as well as Richard at The Bell for his kind donation. We would also like to thank his regular Sunday afternoon customers for putting up with several chocolate overloaded children and their parents post-hunt!

We hope to be able to run this event again next year as the feedback was so positive. We hope if you joined in this year we will see you again or if you couldn't make it this year you will be inspired to try it next time.

We must take this opportunity to tell you about the 'Avening cycle hill climb' which will be held on Saturday 29th June. This is another fund raising event which should be so much fun! More information on this coming soon.

If you would like your child to join our lovely playgroup please contact Debbie any week day between 9.15am and 12.15am on 01453 832695.

The new year's programme is now in full swing. Our first visit of the year was to the BBC studios in Bristol. Not sure what to expect we were shown around by 2 experienced guides who made the tour an extremely informative and fun morning. Many more programmes than we ever imagined are produced from Bristol including Antiques Roadshow, Flog It, cookery shows and of course the Natural History Unit is based there.

We were shown the control centre, the news room and the Points West studio which is much smaller than it appears. There is no room for the weather presenters on days when they have guests seated in the studio and that is when you see him or her broadcasting from the roof. We saw the Radio Bristol studios which were in operation and finally spent some time in a spare studio presenting a version of Points West, the weather, and an extract from the Archers including various sound effects. The photo shows some of our members being characters from the Archers and very good they were too!

The BBC do these tours regularly for small groups (up to 15). I would thoroughly recommend it.

At this month's meeting the annual bursary towards a residential course at Denman (the W.I.'s. College in Oxfordshire) was awarded to Anne Antrobus after her name was drawn from a hat.

There was no speaker this month and instead we had a mini fashion show presented by Stafford Cottage of Minchinhampton. One of the models was our own Di Wall who was very stylish. I think she has done it before! The members enjoyed the show very much.

We have 4 teams entered for the County W.I. Federation Quiz. We attended the first round and one of our teams was equal first. A very good start.

We are also having a fun quiz open to everyone in the village and beyond on 26th April, 7.30 p.m. at the Sports and Social Club. We need teams of 4 and there will be a ploughman's supper included in the price of £16 per team. The money raised from the quiz will go to the Gloucestershire Air Ambulance service which needs to buy a new helicopter.

We have a walk and lunch organised as well before the end of this month. We also have a small group of members attending the Annual Council Meeting at Cheltenham Town Hall. One of the speakers this year is Sharon Davis the Olympic swimmer.

Avening Book Club

To The End of the Land, David Grossman, Translated by Jessica Cohen, Vintage 2011

This is a challenging book. With the war in Israel as a background it's a tale of broken people in a broken land. Or it's the tale of a journey through that broken land in which two walkers come closer again to one another as Ora and to a much lesser degree Avram recount pieces of their broken tale. Pieces which eventually start forming in the readers mind as a coherent whole. We all found it quite a difficult book to get into. After the 45 pages of the Prologue I'd almost lost the will to continue, but then as the journey started the style and mood changed and I started enjoying the book.

Although the next section is entitled The Walk it doesn't start straight away, instead for the next sixty pages or so we have two taxi rides which Ora takes with the Arab taxi driver Sami. The first is to take her son Ofer to the muster point to rejoin the Israeli Army for an important campaign. It is remarkably insensitive of Ora to inflict this humiliation on him and some of our group thought this a little out of character for Ora. It is however important for introducing the Arab viewpoint and balancing the sympathies of the book for whilst written from an Israeli perspective this is not a partisan work. The second trip is to pick up Avram, an old friend of Ora's who is to join her on the walk which will occupy the remainder of the book. On the way Sami takes the opportunity to deliver a sick Arab child to a clandestine hospital which is being run by the Arabs and we are given an insight into the sufferings of his people.

Then Ora and Avram start their long walk, camping out along the way. Ora's declared aim is to be away from home so that "notifiers" can't find her and if they can't tell her that her son's a casualty then it can't happen, can it? but of course there's more to it than that. I won't spoil the tale for you, but they talk as they walk and gradually we collect and assemble the pieces of their story, firstly and mostly from Ora and later from Avram too. By the end of the book we can fit the jigsaw together, but tantalisingly and symbolically the final piece is missing.

I enjoyed the book. It's about the impact of war upon people, it's cleverly uses the device of a walk to present Ora's story bit by bit in a broken sequence which reinforces its main message. It keeps us alert and interested as detective like we reconstruct the tale as the evidence emerges. It's a book I would never have picked up myself. I'm glad the book club chose it.

Yew - reduce diameter of crown by 2m (1m of radius, 7m to 6M) reduce height from approx 17m to 15m (2m off)

Members objected very strongly to the proposed work on this tree as it is a crucial part of the historic landscape; the tree is some 80 years old and is located in the oldest part of the village and on the old toll road. Whilst maintenance of all trees is to be encouraged, Members feel that reducing the height by 2m is considerable and excessive.

Have you ever thought of being a Volunteer Assistant Lock Keeper ?

The Environment Agency, which is navigation authority for the Thames, is now recruiting for the 2013 season and are looking for volunteers who can commit to assisting at least one day a week between May and the end of September along the river between Reading and Lechlade. Hours are by arrangement but need to be available at least from 11 to 5. The work is done alongside paid lock keepers: helping boats pass through the lock safely, taking ropes, directing traffic, and operating sluices and lock gates; help to maintain the site by painting, tidying and gardening and provide information to visitors.

All applicants are invited to an assessment at a local lock where the role will be explained to them and be shown what it involves in practical terms. They will also be assessed to decide which site may be most appropriate and to ensure that they have the physical capabilities required. This will be followed by an induction course which focuses on safety and preparing them for the lock side.

Volunteers are provided with some uniform and can claim mileage for travel to and from their lock (subject to a daily maximum). They also receive a monthly newsletter which keeps them in touch with what is going on along the river and other activities of the Environment Agency.

If you would like to find out more about volunteering on the Thames and to receive an information pack and application form, please contact the Volunteer team on 01491 828360 or email thames.volunteers@environment-agency.gov.uk

The next meeting of Avening Parish Council will be held on Thursday 18 April 2013, at 7.30pm, in the Memorial Hall. Parish Council meetings are usually held on the third Thursday of the month. All are welcome. The Parish Council address is below.
